

BLOCK BY BLOCK: Stewires Margie Traylor says Tempe is 'the center of it all.' 13-20

THIS WEEK ONLINE: mousing our new page featuring breaking stories reported at phoenixbizjournal.com. 12

Grand Canyon pays $50M for campus, plans major expansion

BY ANNE HANCOCK
Grand Canyon University (GCU) has paid $50 million to purchase the Phoenix campus it has been leasing. The school plans to build a new center that will house its administrative offices and faculty offices, and to expand its classroom facilities and research center.

Grand Canyon University's acquisition of the Phoenix campus is a landmark move for the school, which has been leasing the campus since 1999. The school plans to build a new center that will house its administrative offices and faculty offices, and to expand its classroom facilities and research center.

Cutting from the top

Some Valley business owners take a hit to prevent layoffs.

Howard Enterprises and its business partner, Candy Chen, took a 20 percent pay cut. Star Avian's Suzanne Lacked took a 20 percent pay cut. A business owner who reported a 20 percent pay cut. Howard Enterprises and its business partner, Candy Chen, took a 20 percent pay cut. Star Avian's Suzanne Lacked took a 20 percent pay cut. A business owner who reported a 20 percent pay cut.

McFarlane line to

Phoenix-based McFarlane is planning to build a new production plant in Tempe. The company is planning to build a new production plant in Tempe. The company is planning to build a new production plant in Tempe.

Front to back: Michael Mahoney, CEO of Triyar Hospitality, developer of Aloft Tempe; Jamie Metzger, general manager of Aloft Tempe; and Chad Couture, director of operations at Aloft Tempe.

Aloft Tempe grand opening

The $25 million Aloft Tempe is the first newly constructed hotel to open in Tempe in a decade and the first Arizona property under Starwood Hotels & Resorts Worldwide Inc.'s new lifestyle hotel brand. The five-story, 136-room hotel features loft-inspired guest rooms.

R-Ariza, left, with Glenn...

Update from Capitol Hill

Business and community leaders at the Scottsdale Plaza Resort Chamber of Commerce... Update from Capitol Hill... Business and community leaders at the Scottsdale Plaza Resort Chamber of Commerce...

Brad and Bron...

Peacemaker Breakfast for Valle del Sol

The Arizona Public Service Co. Center for Culture & Understanding at Valle del Sol celebrated the 2009 Peacemaker Breakfast...

Colin, Jenny, and Ernesto...

'Business Journal' Forty Under 40

Nearly 200 people gathered April 23 at the Herberger Theater Center to honor the Phoenix Business Journal's 2009 class of Forty Under 40. Each year, the newspaper fields hundreds of applicants for the honor and convenes a panel of community judges to determine who is worthy of the recognition.

frontdoors

Front to back: Michael Mahoney, CEO of Triyar Hospitality, developer of Aloft Tempe; Jamie Metzger, general manager of Aloft Tempe; and Chad Couture, director of operations at Aloft Tempe.

Aloft Tempe grand opening

The $25 million Aloft Tempe is the first newly constructed hotel to open in Tempe in a decade and the first Arizona property under Starwood Hotels & Resorts Worldwide Inc.'s new lifestyle hotel brand.

Ocotilla at Arizona Biltmore

Frank Lloyd Wright. The resort's former Arizona Wing, originally opened in 1909, was completely renovated to create Ocotilla.

